Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

The Journal of Philosophy Psychology and Scientific Methods

There is no similar journal in the field of scientific philosophy. It is issued fortnightly and permits the quick publication of short contributions, prompt reviews, and timely discussions. The contents of the last five issues are as follows :

Volume IX. No. 5. February 29, 1912

The Problem of Knowledge. NORMAN KEMP SMITH.

Discussion : Bergson's Anti-Intellectualism. JOHN E. RUSSELL.

Reviews and Abstracts of Literature. Journals and New Books. Notes and News.

Volume IX. No. 6. March 14, 1912

The Concept of Immediacy. B. H. BODE.

What Kind of Realism? DURANT DRAKE.

Discussion : Explicit Primitives. A Reply to Mrs. Franklin. WARNER FITE.

Reviews and Abstracts of Literature. Journals and New Books. Notes and News.

Volume IX. No. 7. March 28, 1912

The Relations of Individual and Experimental Psychology to Social Psychology. JOSEPH KINMONT HART.

Societies : The Twentieth Meeting of the American Psychological Association. M. E. HAGGERTY.

Reviews and Abstracts of Literature. Journals and New Books. Notes and News.

Volume IX. No. 8. April 11, 1912

Studies in the Structure of Systems. 1. The Separation of Problems. KARL SCHMIDT.

A Simple Method for the Study of Entoptic Phenomena. GEORGE R. MONTGOMERY.

Discussion : On Mind as an Observable Object. EDGAR A. SINGER, JR.

Reviews and Abstracts of Literature. Journals and New Books. Notes and News.

Volume IX. No. 9. April 25, 1912

Is There a Cognitive Relation? ROY WOOD SELLARS.

Discussion : Inversion. KARL SCHMIDT.

Societies : New York Branch of the American Psychological Association. H. L. HOLLINGWORTH.

Reviews and Abstracts of Literature. Journals and New Books. Notes and News.

THE JOURNAL OF PHILOSOPHY PSYCHOLOGY AND SCIENTIFIC METHODS

Sub-Station 84, New York City

$3.00 per annum (26 numbers) 15 cents per copy.

The Open Court Publications

New

Waves of the Sea, and Other Water Waves

By Vaughan Cornish

A fascinating book, not only for the person who desires to obtain an introductory study to physiography and wave phenomena in relation to it, but for the general reader who is an admirer of water in action. The gushing of cataracts, whirls and eddies, every type of water structure, are explained in the author's refreshing style. The book is profusely illustrated with remarkable photographs showing to a fine degree the weirdness and fascination of many peculiar wave formations. If you are interested in any way in atmospheric disturbances, or sand and earth formations, you will find a scientific treatment of all wave action, with its relation to these phenomena, given in this book.

Lovers of water and its peculiar and fascinating action will find in Mr. Cornish's volume a wealth of interesting material of such a nature as to justify them in being particularly proud to have it in their libraries. Cloth, $2.50 net, illustrated.

EGYPT

The Lure of this Land of Mystery has never been portrayed so Impressively as in this New Book Entitled

Egyptian Aesthetics

By Rene Francis

It offers an attractive introduction to the study of Egyptian History and Art. Its crisp descriptions of the Egypt of to-day make interesting reading for the traveler and general reader alike. The author has employed a truly narrative style which carries the reader along in delightful fashion, as if taking a walk through an enchanted country accompanied by the keeper of the treasure house. The lure of this land of mystery, its hatefulness as well as its charm, is thoroughly known to the author of this book. Cloth, $2.00 net.

On the Inheritance of Acquired Characters

By Eugenio Rignano

Translated by Basil C. H. Harvey, U. of C.

The Outlook says: "The questions this volume discusses are of the gravest consequence, not only to scientists, but ultimately to us all, and upon the answers to them will depend to a very large degree the future of the race. It is a contribution to the attempt to understand the nature of living matter."—Cloth, $3 net.

Aspects of Death in Art

By F. P. Weber

A curious and interesting treatise of the mental attitude toward the idea of death as illustrated in works of art, especially medals, engraved gems, jewels, finger rings, etc.

This book makes its appeal to the collector of rare coins, to those interested in old and peculiar specimens of jewelry, and to all those who appreciate curious and peculiar forms of art. $1.50 net.

All Booksellers, or sent direct on receipt of price

Our catalogue containing complete list of publications will be sent you on request

NOTE: The Open Court Magazine publishes during the year the best articles on subjects of art, religion and science which can be procured. Rare manuscripts are frequently published in the magazine, and translations of the best foreign authors are made for publications, with the view of giving distinct contributions to many subjects. Price, $1.00 a year. Single Copy, 10 cents.

THE OPEN COURT PUBLISHING COMPANY

623 South Wabash Ave. CHICAGO